

Mint of the United States at Philadelphia, Pa.,

Custodian Office,

December 9th, 1892

Wm O. C. Basbyshell

Superintendent

Dear Sir

In my inspection of the building I find one item of old "coin bags" that have been used in the transporting and delivering of coin for redemption at this "Mint". They are too stiff for use as waste, or to use as wrapping paper, and they have accumulated for years up to about one year ago. I recommended their return to all Sub-Treasurers. Very few of these bags are fit for service - and I desire some instruction as to their disposal.

Yours Respectfully

James E. McKame Custodian

NARA RG104, Entry 1, Box 179

Mint of the United States at Philadelphia, Pa.,
Custodians Office,
December 9, 1892

Col. O.C. Bosbyshell
Superintendent

Dear Sir

In my inspection of the building I find one item of old "coin bags" that have been used in the transporting and delivering of coin for redemption at this "Mint". They are too stiff for use as waste, or to use as wiping rags, and they have accumulated for years up to about one year ago. I recommend to their return to all sub-Treasurers very few of these bags are fit for service – and I desire some instruction as to their disposal.

Yours Respectfully
James E. MacLaue, Custodian